

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING “PETITION FOR PERSONAL PROTECTION ORDER” (NON-DOMESTIC RELATIONSHIP)

If you are experiencing stalking, you may be entitled to a Personal Protection Order (PPO). A PPO is intended to provide protection for a person who is experiencing repeated, unconsented contact by a person to whom they are not related or in a current or former relationship.

If you are experiencing violence or threats of violence from a member of your family or someone with whom you have or had an intimate relationship, please ask staff for a Domestic PPO instruction sheet.

To request a PPO from the Tribal Court, you must first complete a Petition for Personal Protection Order.

By filling out a Petition for Personal Protection Order, you are asking the Tribal Court to issue an order prohibiting the other person (the “respondent”) from doing certain things, such as making any contact with you and your family, coming near your personal residence or workplace, contacting you through third parties, making threats or harming you in any way, or causing damage to your property. If a protection order is issued and later violated by the respondent, he/she may be subject to arrest and other sanctions, including imprisonment.

Under LTBB law, a protection order may only be issued if certain requirements are met.

To be entitled to a protection order, you must show the Court that you have experienced an intentional pattern of conduct (two or more instances) by the respondent that made you feel terrorized, frightened, intimidated, threatened, harassed, or molested. You must also show that you have communicated to this person that you want their contact to stop.

To meet this standard, you will want to inform the Court of every instance of threatening or frightening behavior committed by the respondent, including non-physical acts that caused fear. Be as specific as possible, and include not only the most recent incident(s) but any incidents that may have occurred in the past.

Examples of unconsented contact may include such behaviors as following you, approaching or confronting you in public, appearing at your home or workplace, calling you repeatedly, sending you emails or letters, or delivering items to your home or workplace.

If you are in immediate danger, you should ask the judge for an “ex-parte” order, which means the personal protection order could be issued without waiting for a hearing.

Completing the Petition for Personal Protection Order

Items (1) through (6) on the Petition for Personal Protection Order must be completed before it can be filed. Please read the instructions for each numbered item and fill in the information on the form as accurately and thoroughly as possible.

1. Write your name, address, and telephone number in the “Petitioner” box. If you are under 18 years of age, write in your age. Write the name, address, and telephone number of the person you want restrained in the “Respondent” box; if he or she is under 18 years of age, write in his/her age. If you want your address and telephone number to be kept from the respondent, do not write your address. Ask the clerk for a separate confidential address form. Describe your relationship with the respondent in the blank.
2. Indicate whether the respondent or petitioner is an American Indian and his/her Tribal affiliation.
3. Check if the respondent is required to carry a firearm while at work. If you aren’t sure, check “unknown.”
4. Indicate whether or not there are any pending court cases between you and the respondent. If there are, please fill in the case number, the name of the tribe, the court, the county, the state where the action was filed, and the judge.
5. Explain as thoroughly and in as much detail as possible why you are asking for a personal protection order. Describe what has happened so the judge has enough facts to decide if a protection order should be signed. Describe any and all separate instances of abuse, threats, or any other acts that caused you to feel terrorized, frightened, intimidated, threatened, harassed, or molested. Include dates and places. Write on a separate sheet of paper and attach it to this form if necessary. Be sure to check the “CAUTION” box if you experienced any physical violence or threats of physical violence, or if there was a weapon involved, or if you believe the respondent might have a weapon.
6. Check each box that you need. You must be able to tell the judge why you need the protection you are requesting.
7. Check the box requesting an “ex-parte order” if you believe the respondent might hurt you between now and the time a hearing may be granted, or if you believe that the respondent might hurt you when he is given notice of a scheduled hearing. An “ex-parte order” means you do not have to let the other party know in advance that you are asking the court for an order and you do not have to wait for a court hearing to get an order. Note that if you are granted the ex-parte personal protection order a hearing must be held within 14 days from the granting of the order. You and the respondent will need to be present at this hearing. A court officer will also be present. If you request an ex parte order and the judge denies it, you may request a hearing. If you do not check the box for an ex parte order, you will receive a court hearing before a protection order is granted.
8. Be sure to check this box. This asks the Court to set a date for a hearing to consider granting a final protective order and other relief, and to send a summons to the respondent ordering him to return to court for that hearing.
9. If you are under 18 years old, you can have an adult to petition for you, but it is not required. Check this box if you are having someone helping you file this form, and have him/her sign the petition.
10. Write in today’s date and sign the form. Do not enter anything in the “COURT ACTION” section.

When you have completed the form, provide it to the Court Clerk. He/she will complete the form and provide copies.
